

Next week, Congressman Paul Ryan will be hosting a series of listening sessions throughout the First Congressional District. He'll visit nine communities from Tuesday, March 18th to Friday, March 21st, to speak with residents about issues ranging from the budget and health care to taxes and spending.

These meetings are open to the public and provide a great opportunity to ask questions and share thoughts with Congressman Ryan. A complete schedule of the upcoming listening sessions is below and also available at paulryan.house.gov
